

Tuesday 2nd February - Can I recognise recurring language in a poem?

“Where Broccoli Comes From”

By Michael Rosen

Not many people know that broccoli grows in the armpits of very big green men who live in the forest and brave broccoli cutters go deep into the forests and they creep up on the very big green men.
They wait for the
very big green men
to fall asleep
and the broccoli cutters

Tuesday 2nd February - Can I recognise recurring language in a poem?

get out their great big broccoli razors

and they shave the armpits of the very big green men.

And that's where broccoli comes from.

Not many people know that.

Just thought I'd let you know.

(Illustration taken from Michael Rosen book, Yuliya Somina)

Activity - Now take 3 different coloured pencils and put a circle around the nouns, underline the adjectives and tick the verbs.

Did you notice any recurring language in:-

Chocolate Cake

---

---

No Breathing In Class

---

---

Where Broccoli Comes From

---

---