

Monday 22nd February – Suggested Activities

Cooking

You might like to do some cooking with a parent! You could make a sweet treat like cupcakes or something savoury like a pasta dish? You can help your mums and dads by reading the recipe to them, measuring out the ingredients and mixing everything up! Don't forget to send your teachers a picture of your yummy creations once you have made them!

Outdoor Art

Perhaps you would like to try some outdoor art! You could either go for a walk with your family or look around the garden to collect some bits you might want to use. Try to look for pebbles, feathers, sticks and leaves and see what creations you can make with them in your gardens. Outdoor artist Andy Goldsworthy liked to make patterns with his natural materials.

Making a Reading Den

Sometimes when it is rainy outside the best thing to do is snuggle down with a good book. You could try making yourself a cosy den in your house that can be your reading den. A simple den could be made by putting a blanket over two chairs and then putting some cushions and cuddly toys inside!

Taking your pencil for a walk

This is a mindfulness activity you might like to try. You take your pencil and walk it all over your paper then at the end you try and fill up each segment with a different shape or pattern. What amazingly unique patterns will you make?

A Maths Hunt

Perhaps you might like to practise your numeracy skills. For this all you need to do is ask someone in your family to write down some numeracy questions (adding, taking away, multiplying and dividing) and then hide them around the house. Your job is to then hunt them down and solve the answers! You could even time yourself to see how quickly you can complete your mathematical mission!

A Compliment Box

You may remember we have one of these at school! For this all you need is a shoe box you can decorate and some pieces of paper. Once you have beautifully decorated your box you can ask everyone in your family to write down a compliment about someone else in the family who has done something kind, sensible, thoughtful or helpful lately. Then at the end of the day you can open the box and share the compliments. Remember kind words make everyone feel better!
